

ABSTRACT

A wireless device comprises host logic, network interface logic, and an antenna. The network interface logic transmits symbols containing a plurality of data tones and wherein the network interface logic varies the number of data tones among the symbols within a packet.